Attention 30 seconds to mars family-

In the next few days a challenge will be given to you. It is time to mark your place in 30 seconds to mars history by participating in a competition that will test your creative skills and show your true design colors to the entire Mars Army. You will be duly rewarded for your artistic expression and be able to make a mark in the 30 seconds to mars chronicles.

Keep your eyes open, your fingers poised and your brains focused. Until then...

P.S. The Yearbook is in production now. We will update as information becomes available if there will be any change in the timeline to get these books to you. We don't expect there to be.
